

Dear Friend,

According to the National Weather Service, a blizzard warning is now in effect for large parts of our district, with 5 to 10 inches of snow expected, and up to 12 inches possible near the coast. Residents of VA-02 should prepare for this storm, which is scheduled to take effect between Wednesday night and Thursday. This storm brings with it the threats of extremely cold temperatures, increased wind speeds, wind chills, water level rise, and hazardous impacts on travel and general safety.

Please note that the forecasted information for this weather event is time-sensitive and subject to change depending on a variety of environmental factors. Therefore, I would strongly encourage you to consult the resources below. It is important that you and your family have the most up-to-date information from the National Weather Service and emergency preparedness resources from municipalities within our district.

Sincerely,
